Taxpayers' Council Picks Committee To Appeal To Governor

Ulster-Greene Association Will Ask Chief Executive To Order Investigation of All Relief Departments.

MUTARI TO SERVE

Council Head Pledges Himself to the Limit and Charges Lots of Work.

At the regular monthly meeting in the Stuyvesant Hotel, Friday night, 15 members of the Ulster-Greene Taxpayers Council took part in a busy session out of which grew a motion to form a committee to represent the taxpayers before the state legislature at Albany.

President George Mutari heads the committee, the other two members of which are J. W. Brooks of Coxsack and Jay Terry of Kingston, president of the local taxpayers association.

"I think our first move should be to go direct to the governor and have all relief departments investigated," said Mr. Mutari, who presided over last night's meeting. He was the unanimous choice of the taxpayers to serve on the committee as spokesman.

In the motion to form the committee, the president was given power to appoint one member and provision was made that the other two should be elected by the group. Messrs. Brooks and Terry were unanimously elected, the former to represent Greene county and the latter, Ulster.

When the time for appointment of the third member by the president came, E. Schmalenberg, Coxsack realtor, moved that Mr. Mutari serve on the committee and that he be requested by the meeting to appoint himself. The vote that he do so was unanimous, so he accepted the position.

"I charge you with lots of work and effort," said he to the two other members. "I shall be glad to go the limit with you in putting forth all the energy needed to serve the Ulster-Greene taxpayers."

The move to investigate relief was made when various taxpayers from towns in Ulster and Greene said they found it impossible to obtain figures on how much was being spent and how many were on the relief rolls.

A resolution was adopted authorizing Jacob Schreiber, secretary, to write to the board of supervisors of Ulster county asking that every committee have representation from the minority party.

Because the board is already organized, this motion probably will not have any effect at present, it was explained by Supervisor Herbert Sears of the town of Marlborough, a staunch member of the taxpayers' council. However, the letter coming as the voice of the people should be recognized by the next board, it was suggested.

Mr. Mutari said it was his belief that there would be at least four political tickets in the next election at Saugerties. He brought this out to substantiate his statement that the board of supervisors would be made up of a different "complexion" next time.

Mr. Sears was hailed as the one impartial supervisor in the Ulster county board. "We have 16 Democrats and 16 Republicans in our board and one impartial representative," Mr. Sears said.

"How can you tell them to vote with?" asked one taxpayer.

In answer to this, Mr. Sears spoke at length on party government.

Too Much Causus
"There's too much causus government," he said, "and not enough in the interest of the people who men are elected to serve. I refuse to be bound by causus. A man should be big enough to vote the way he sees proper to suit the people he represents."

That the taxpayers are familiar with the attitude of Supervisor Sears is manifested in a little incident that happened when he entered to take part in the meeting.

"Don't sit in the back, come up here," said President Mutari as Mr. Sears modestly dropped into one of the chairs a little out of the president's range.

"I'll stay here," responded the legislator from Marlborough.

"Remember, I'm your boss," said Mutari, jokingly. Then he exclaimed, "Can you imagine Sears having a boss?"

Mr. Brooks gave a lengthy talk on the organization of a taxpayers' newspaper in Coxsack, saying one was needed. "We have only one paper here, a Democratic paper that slanders taxpayers when they start," he told the meeting.

Another member of the group differed with Mr. Brooks on the newspaper idea. She was not in favor of the name of the new paper, The Greene County Republican, believing

China Now Appeals to Western Powers for Help

(By The Associated Press)

China has resorted to an appeal to western powers for help against Japan, diplomatic quarters in London asserted, her ambassador to Great Britain protesting to the foreign office against Japan's penetration of North China.

Two series of Japanese demands confronted Chinese authorities, while Japan poured fresh troops into Tientsin and Peking and massed forces at the sea end of China's Great Wall.

Li Gen, Toranosuke Hashimoto, vice minister of war at Tokyo, asserted the North China demands "contain nothing the Chinese government cannot accept if it is sincerely interested in furtherance of peace in the Far East."

Chinese government authorities conferred at Nanking with General Ho Ying-Chin, Chinese minister of war, concerning the demands.

Consider Plans for Kingston's Part in Opening of Bridge

Plans for Kingston being represented at the opening celebration of the new Rip Van Winkle Bridge across the Hudson river at Catskill, which is scheduled for July 2, are being considered by a committee appointed some time ago by the Kingston Merchants' Association.

No definite plans have yet been made but the committee is working out a plan. At one time it was hoped that Kingston might be made the terminus for the big opening parade since Kingston is on the direct route from eastern Pennsylvania to the New England states, a route which will be connected up by the opening of the new bridge.

This new bridge will be of vital interest to local people since it will attract people from the south up through Delaware Water Gap and by way of Port Jervis through Ellenville and Kingston to route 9-W and across the bridge at Catskill. It will furnish a direct route from New England to the mountain resorts of Pennsylvania where the Pocono mountains are becoming one of the east's great summer resorts.

The committee in charge of local participation in the opening celebration will probably have a program to announce soon.

CONSIDER NEW ATTEMPT TO DUST GENERAL FOULOIS.

Washington, June 15 (AP).—A new attempt to obtain removal of Major General Benjamin D. Foullois as chief of the army air corps was considered today by some members of the House military committee.

Representative Rogers (D-NH) and Hill (D-Ala) asserted they did not believe Secretary Dern had gone far enough in merely reprimanding the general.

A subcommittee headed by Rogers recommended a year that Foullois be relieved, declaring he had been guilty of "violations and evasions of law and army regulations" and "gross misconduct and inefficiency."

Mr. Sears was hailed as the one impartial supervisor in the Ulster county board. "We have 16 Democrats and 16 Republicans in our board and one impartial representative," Mr. Sears said.

LITTLE BRIDGES FIND FAVOR IN WORK RELIEF.

Washington, June 15 (AP).—Little bridges were in favor and big bridges were "out" today as the New Deal wrestled with the difficulties confronting the $4,000,000,000 work relief program.

In acknowledging that there have been disappointments in trying to get the program started, President Roosevelt let it be known yesterday that he considers it imperative to find projects that will require small expense for materials. He still insisted, however, that the old civil works administration idea was not being revived.

Nine Strangers Were Asleep in a Box Car

Early this morning Officers Fallon, Edward Leonard and Sammons paid a visit to a box car on the railroad siding in the rear of the Kingston Lumber Company on Fair street extension, and found nine strangers asleep in the car. All nine were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. Later this morning the nine were arraigned before Judge Oulton in police court and given a suspended jail sentence provided they left town at once. The nine gave their names as Joseph Murray, James Kirby, Jerry Russell, James Tullin, Thomas Kane, James Burke, John Polowinski, Frank Barry and Hubert Morrison. Three said they had no home and the others claim to live in distant cities.

FATHER COLLAPSES

Fisherman Saw the Body Floating Near Shore; Superficial Verdict Is Death by Drowning.

New York, June 15 (AP).—The body of little Jackie Kaul, 5, was recovered from the East River today, ending a frantic search which began June 6, when the boy disappeared from a playground in fashionable Sutton Place on Manhattan's East Side.

The body was identified by the missing boy's father, John Kaul. The body, taken from East River in the Bronx roughly ten miles from where he was last seen, was viewed in the Forham Hospital Morgue by the father. He collapsed after making the identification.

Recovery of the body ended a police search that has progressed on two theories since the child's disappearance. One theory, believed by his mother, was that he had fallen into the river. Police also believed he might have been seized by a woman of frustrated maternal instincts.

The body was discovered today by Salvatore La fishing at the foot of Tiffany street. He summoned a policeman who, waiting until the current had carried the body to within wading distance, brought it ashore.

The lad was last seen on a playground near his home playing with a ball found today in the pocket of his blouse. His mother feared from the start that he had been drowned, and police and volunteer searchers dragged the river, using grappling hooks under the piers southward from Sutton Place. The point of recovery was north of the neighborhood where he was last seen.

A cursory examination by an assistant medical examiner showed death was by drowning.

When Detective Thomas Crane went to the Kaul home to report the finding of the body, Kaul drew him into the kitchen. After listening to Crane's description, he urged the detective not to mention it to Mrs. Kaul, but the detective insisted the grief-stricken mother should be told, and in naming the identifying items he mentioned the "Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal" on Jackie's shirt.

"Oh, John!" she cried to her husband. "It's Jackie. I pinned the medal on him."

Mrs. Kaul, shaken by the news, said she always had a dread of water, a dread shared by Jackie.

Kidnaper Attorney Is Convicted in Oklahoma Of Dispensing Ransom

Denver Lawyer Found Guilty of Receiving Ransom Cash From Captor of Charles F. Urschel; Witness Is Arrested.

CASE OF PREJUDICE

Laska Says Arrest of Mrs. Molly O. Edison is a Case of Prejudice.

Oklahoma City, June 15 (AP).—A few minutes after Ben B. Laska, Denver attorney was convicted of conspiracy in the disposition of the Charles F. Urschel kidnap ransom, his star defense witness, Mrs. Molly O. Edison, also a Denver attorney, was arrested on a federal charge of perjury.

The arrest, immediately after the sealed verdict against Laska was read, came as a surprise to the crowded court room.

Laska, voluble defender of kidnapers, the twentieth person convicted for a part in the $200,000 Charles F. Urschel kidnaping, said, "It's one of the most inconsistent prosecutions in America. It's persecution, pure and simple."

"That jury never went out and considered the evidence. It had its mind made up. Each and every one of those jurors took an oath to listen fairly to all the testimony and they did not do it—they violated that oath."

Mrs. Edison, shocked and tearful at the verdict, appeared stunned by her arrest.

She immediately was arraigned and pleaded not guilty.

Laska sprang to her defense shouting: "This is an outrage. There's nothing to it. They're prejudiced against me and everybody who tries to help me."

Mrs. Edison, attractive young attorney, wore a dark mannish suit and a pince-nez.

She had testified in behalf of Laska that Edward Feldmann, stepson of Albert Barnes, whom Laska successfully defended, paid Laska $2,700 in bills of varying denominations instead of the $20 ransom notes as Feldmann testified.

Bond for Mrs. Edison was set at $5,000, pending preliminary hearing set for Friday, June 21.

The Bituminous Coal Strike Called Off Today

Federal Agents Seek Trail of Mahan Today

Butte, Mont., June 15 (AP).—Federal agents and police hoped today to pick up the trail of William Mahan, Weyerhaeuser kidnap suspect, through altered ransom bills.

Stores in Butte and elsewhere were asked to make a close inspection of all paper money, checking particularly bills which might have had numbers changed.

Green ink and acid, found in the car with $15,155 ransom money left behind when he fled here Sunday, indicated he intended changing numbers on the bills. A similar outfit was located in a Salt Lake City garage where the fugitive is believed to have kept his car before coming to Butte.

Officials said they believed Mahan still had the unrecovered $89,000 in his possession. He might have succeeded in marking and passing notes at places where only a cursory examination was made.

The hunt for altered bills gave new impetus to the search after agents and police had returned empty-handed last night from an expedition covering a large area along the Butte-Helena highway.

Another clue being investigated was the presence of a man answering Mahan's description at Driggs, Ida., asking the road to Idaho Falls.

New York Central Is Considering Razing Old U. & D. Shops Here

Machine Shops Have Not Been Used Since Railroad Was Taken Over By New York Central—Buildings Badly Damaged by Vandals—Would Save Taxes Being Paid on Buildings

The New York Central railroad has under consideration a plan to demolish the old Ulster & Delaware railroad machine shops and round house in the railroad yards on East Strand, but officials of the road today denied that the work of demolishing the buildings would be commenced on Monday as rumored for several weeks.

The large machine shops in the rear of the old brick buildings were erected some years ago, and at the time was considered one of the most modern machine shops of its type. It has many windows and since the shops have not been operating vandals have broken many of the windows in the building.

What machinery was in the machine shops that had not been disposed of has been stolen. It was stated by one railroad official this morning. It was also stated that the railroad has had several prospects look over the buildings with a view of using them for factory purposes.

The brick building along East Strand has had the windows boarded up as all of the glass had been knocked out. Not only have vandals destroyed many of the windows but they have done considerable damage to the interior of the buildings.

One reason the railroad has been considering demolishing the buildings is the fact that they would save considerable in taxes which are now paid on vacant buildings.

When it was first known that the railroad was contemplating tearing down the buildings local residents took the matter up with the railroad in an effort to save at least the more modern machine shop in the rear of the old shops on the ground that many concerns were looking for factories.

Anti-Aircraft Gets Notice in England

London, June 15 (AP).—Great Britain ordered today that eight battalions be formed immediately on a war-time basis for anti-aircraft defense. The surprise war office announcement, culminating the nation's air force expansion, said five units will be made over into searchlight battalions and three more, including the famous Royal Fusiliers, will become anti-aircraft artillery brigades.

The order by the army council provided only for the London area, and organization of similar units for the great midland manufacturing cities was expected.

The war office emphasized the security that the new units will be "ready for action immediately on the outbreak of war or even earlier."

John L. Lewis, President of the Union, Recommends That Walk-out Scheduled for Sunday Midnight Be Postponed.

CONDITIONS HOLD

Present Wages, Hours, Working Conditions To Continue Through June 30 As Aid to Congress.

Washington, June 15 (AP).—The projected bituminous coal strike was called off today.

John L. Lewis, president of the union, recommended to his men that they call off the walkout previously called for Sunday midnight.

The president proposed that present wages, hours and working conditions be continued through June 30 to give Congress time to set up a "little NRA" for the bituminous industry. The mine workers and operators who say they represent a majority of the nation's annual commercial soft coal production, have argued that control of prices under such a system would give the producers sufficient income to meet the miners' wage and hour demands.

A hint of possible opposition to the president's true proposal came from some operators who are opposed to the Guffey bill which would establish the "little NRA" wanted by the U. M. W. Mr. Roosevelt yesterday gave the administration support for this bill. Its author, Senator Guffey (D-Pa.) and Representative Snyder (D-Pa.) told Lewis they had lined up sufficient support to pass the measure.

New York, June 15 (AP).—Of the nation's radical leaders Senator Huey P. Long alone has a chance to succeed, says that brusque appraiser of Americans, Henry L. Mencken. The Louisiana senator is "the greatest demagogue in a long time," declared the Baltimore literatus before he sailed today for Europe to compare notes for a new edition of his work, "The American Language."

"He's against the wealthy but not the moderate wealthy," Mencken said. "He'll allow people to have $1,000,000. In spite of that, however, he's sincere. He's an up-from-slavery man and he has a genuine feeling for the average man."

San Antonio, Tex., June 15 (AP).—Floods that have claimed at least eight lives rolled down the valleys of half a dozen southern Texas streams today, leaving thousands of persons homeless.

The officers would not reveal the source of this tip.

ETHIOPIA: WAR THREAT LOOMS for BLACK EMPIRE

Postman Pauses For Lunch

In spite of the fact there are very few highways and only one railroad in Ethiopia, the tradition that "the mail must go through" persists as vigorously as in more modernized nations. The postmen are barefooted messengers who travel through jungle and plain from the capital to provincial cities and to the frontier outposts where soldiers of the black empire anxiously await word of developments of the quarrel with Italy. The messengers carry letters in the split end of a long stick, a sacred symbol which exempts them from bandits. Here, a postman on one of these trips, which take from three to six weeks, pauses for a typical lunch of bread, water from a pond by the trail, and perhaps, if he was fortunate, a little wild fruit gathered along the way.

She collapsed last Sunday when notified that her son had three other men were killed as their plane crashed in Lake Ontario near Henderson Harbor.

Washington, June 15 (P)—Representative Andrews (R., N. Y.) introduced a bill yesterday which would release World War veterans from liability to pay interest on loans secured by adjusted-service (bonus) certificates.

Warm Weather Care Of Market Eggs

As the temperature increases, during the summer months, the problems of getting the highest quality of eggs to the consumer increase, according to information received from the United States Farm Bureau. Market complaints are already being received that eggs are received in a "mildly fried" condition. This means that they have been exposed to high temperatures and will deteriorate very rapidly.

The first place to prevent this condition and have more satisfied consumers is the poultry farm. First of all eggs should be collected three or four times a day during the spring and summer months. This has advantages during the entire year. In heavy laying flocks, many of the nests are occupied continuously and the eggs in this nest are kept at a temperature of over 100 degrees. This causes a very rapid breaking down of the egg white, making comparatively light yolks visible with an egg candle.

The next step, after frequent collections, is to place the eggs in a wire basket or other well ventilated container. Eggs in the center of an ordinary peck will maintain a high temperature for a day or more. This causes more deterioration. After cooling the eggs they should be placed in a cellar or other cool place, where the temperature is close to 55 degrees or below. They should be packed in this room and shipped two or more times each week.

Temperatures above sixty degrees cause rapid breaking down in egg quality. One day at 100 degrees will cause an egg to deteriorate as much as a week under favorable conditions at 55 degrees. Better eggs increase the consumer's demand, the thing all poultrymen should be interested in. The Farm Bureau will be pleased to discuss these problems with poultrymen at any time.

Perishable Fruit Commission Meets

Albany, June 15 (Special).—The New York State Perishable Fruit Commission, of which James R. Conway, of Marlborough, is a member, conducted its first meeting of the year at Albany Friday afternoon, to discuss plans for securing information from fruit growers themselves, on their views of the present grading, packing and inspection laws, and what changes should be made to those laws.

Among the subjects discussed at the meeting, upon which the general public sentiment will be sought, was the desirability of having the retail merchant mark the grade and variety of the apples he sells. It was pointed out that after a preliminary investigation, the general consensus of opinion was in favor of the proposal, but the difficulty of enforcement still had to be overcome.

Another plan to be considered by the commission, is the feasibility of prohibiting by law the sale of "culls" in the fruit line. This plan has already been carried out by law, in case of potatoes.

The commission consists of six members, and was created in 1933. Two of the members were appointed by the governor—Ewart G. Cowper, of Newfane, Niagara county, and Mr. Conway, of Ulster county. The other four members are Senators John T. McCall, New York city, and Ogden J. Ross, of Troy, and Assemblymen Howard N. Allen, of Pawling, and William Haas, of Coxsackie.

"The idea of bettering conditions for the grower of fruit and assuring a better grade of fruit to the consumer," said Senator McCall, "is of paramount importance when we consider that the perishable fruit industry is the second largest agricultural industry in the state. The commission is to work in close cooperation with the Department of Agriculture and Markets this year and hopes to have a representative of the department with us wherever we go. Our commission occupies a unique position. We can go out and observe the practical application of the law and gain at first hand knowledge of what may be needed to better conditions. Nearly all of the members of our commission are themselves fruit growers. We hope to recommend a real program to the legislature when it convenes next January."

Renewals for Beer Licenses

John B. Judson, chief executive officer of the State Liquor Authority, today issued a warning to holders of beer licenses expiring June 30 that they would be forbidden to sell beer after that date unless they had obtained renewal licenses for the period July 1, 1935-June 30, 1936. Mr. Judson stated that less than 15 per cent of the present beer licenses had sent their renewal applications to the Albany office of the State Liquor Authority where retail licenses are issued for 32 counties in eastern and northern New York. It was pointed out that while the office force will work night and day for the balance of the month at the task of issuing licenses, it requires, in some cases, a week or 10 days for an application to be carefully checked and a license issued. In hundreds of cases where investigations have indicated a lack of bona fides, it will be necessary to hold hearings before licenses are issued. Mr. Judson stated that persons who submit renewal applications later than June 15 will be in danger of not receiving their licenses by July 1.

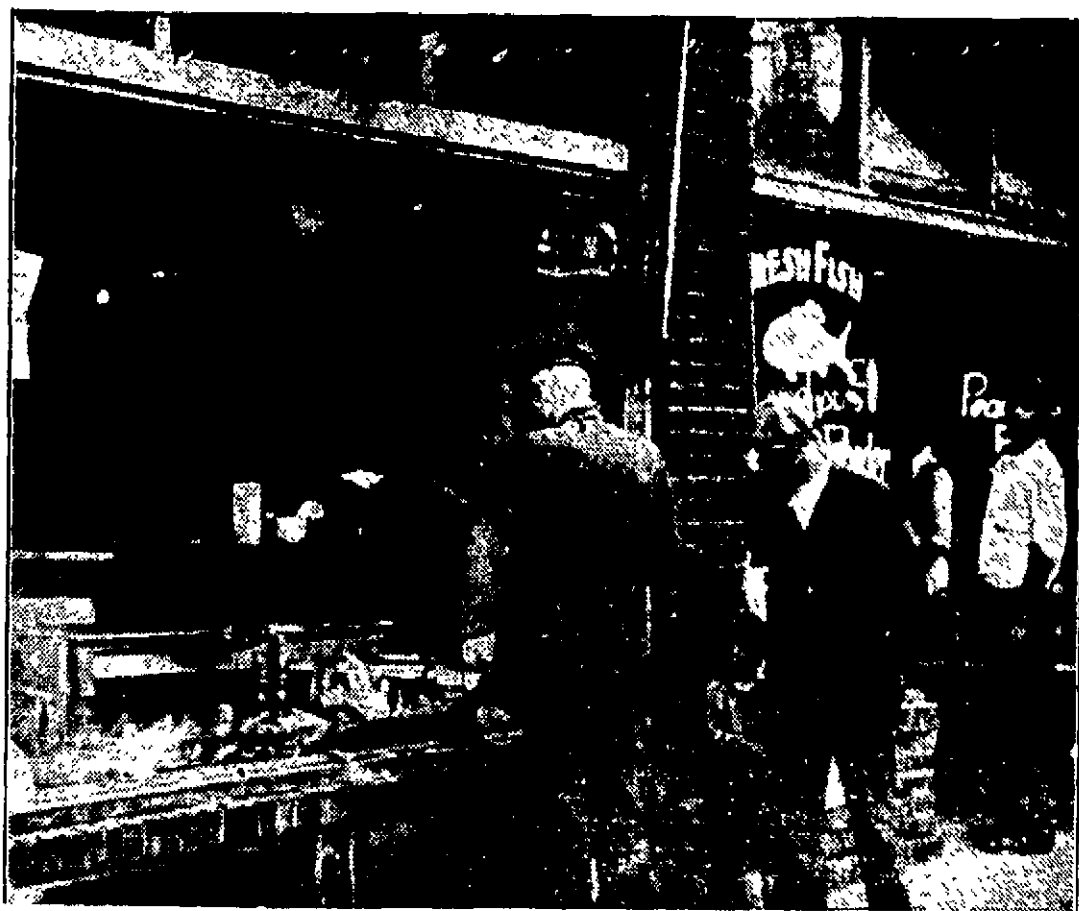

Chairman Edward P. Mulrooney has repeatedly warned beer licensees that under no circumstances will any extension be granted beyond July 1. Police departments throughout the state will be given lists of licensees on July 1 and no person not holding one of the renewed licenses will be permitted to sell beer after that date.

A thousand or so bees found Matt's pump and thought it would be a good place to swarm.

There was a complete shutdown until Matt summoned Walter Brehm of the Carnegie Museum who coaxed the queen bee into a box. Her buzzing subjects followed and Brehm lugged them off to the museum.

THE LIVING CONSTITUTION

There seems to be pretty general agreement that it is unwise to attempt any change in our fundamental law at present through constitutional amendment. Such an attitude, however, need not be taken to mean that the Constitution is regarded as fixed and inflexible. Intelligent people know it has already been amended nearly a score of times, and will undoubtedly be subject to occasional amendment in the future.

It is necessary that this should be so, and necessary that the American public should know it is so, in order
 to preserve the Constitution itself,
 and to preserve the nation whose fate is bound up with it. For it is the flexibility of this great document,
 its power of growth and adaptation,
 that keeps it a living thing suited to new eras and changing needs. If it were frozen and inflexible, it would be doomed to crack in crises
 and the government would be subject to violent revolution. The creators of the Constitution themselves took this viewpoint. George Washington, who presided over the Constitutional Convention of 1787,
 and knew as much about the Constitution as any man, wrote to his friend, Patrick Henry, when it was completed:

"I wish the Constitution which is offered had been more perfect, but I sincerely believe it is the best that would be obtained at this time; and as a constitutional door is opened for amendments hereafter, the adoption of it under the present circumstances is, in my opinion, desirable.

For future epochs the Father of His Country did not presume to speak.

HOPE IN YOUTH.

The hope of this country today,
 many commencement orators are saying, depends on its youth. It does.
 Where else is there hope? There is no evidence that grown-ups, on the whole, have any real understanding of these strange times and problems.
 They are baffled. When they think and act in the old familiar ways they are likely to go wrong. There seem to be new factors in the problem of making a living, the problem of getting along together, the problem of governing, that they can't figure out.
 There isn't very much evidence,
 either, that the boys and girls understand things. Not yet. But they are more plastic, they have more open minds, and they can learn. In a decade or a generation they may see clearly, and master the new world of machinery and mechanized money
 and mechanized life as their fathers
 and grandfathers mastered the old world before the shot was fired at Sarajevo, or before J. P. Morgan organized the United States Steel Corporation. They pick up the economies of this new era more readily than the rest of us. They may be able to bring the stiff, old-fashioned
 "economic laws" into agreement with social justice and popular government, and get machines to working
 for men instead of men for machines,
 without admitting the new tyrannies
 that are crushing Europe. We hope so.

SECOND GREATNESS

Jack Gwynn, professional magician, is a modest man. Contrary to the custom of magicians everywhere,
 he does not call himself the "World's greatest." He has chosen for his title, "World's Second Greatest Magician," and that is how he is advertised and billed. It looks like inspiration. It enables him to claim that he is in a class by himself. It stirs curiosity.
 People who might be skeptical of any man being really the world's greatest are likely to think it quite possible for some one to be the second greatest.

This idea might be carried farther.
 Instead of always going forward and breaking past records, we'd like to see a little retrospection from street
 to street. Let's fix matters so.

next depression will be only the second or third or fourth greatest,
 and the next war will be well down
 the line from the World War. Tallest buildings and biggest ships, and so on, could stand some of this reverse competition, and so could the public that supports them.

FAIRLY HAPPY SWEDEN.

The Swedish government and people are having a birthday party.
 They are celebrating their 500 years of parliamentary government. There is a king, but he is a limited monarch. Some of the Swedish blessings of which greater powers may feel a little envious are:

Sweden managed to stay out of the World War.

It has avoided dictatorship.

Sweden's business survived the Kruger financial crash, which was a serious blow.

It has had a milder form of the world depression than most of Europe.

Its government has attracted world
 attention with an apparently successfully managed currency.

It has cut unemployment more than half in two years.

It is something to be a tremendously important nation with the world's eyes watching your every move. It is also something to be a peaceful and happy nation with the world forgetting about you until something like this celebration comes up.

That Body of Yours

REMOVING TONSILS

From time to time the value of removing tonsils by electricity is reported in the medical journals and sometimes in newspapers and magazines.

As this method involves no trip to or stay in hospital it is only natural that many should ask why this method should not always be used.

Nearly all surgeons now use both methods and they are agreed that the electricity method—electrocoagu-lation—in no way takes the place of the surgical operation, but is the best method in those cases which are poor risks for operation.

Dr. James E. Tylor, New York City,
 says that the surgical method is so absolutely safe, and the danger of the anesthetic, when administered
 by a skilled anesthetist, so slight,
 that there is no justification
 for using electrocoagulation method for removing tonsils. He says that which means a number of visits to the doctor's office. There are, of course, certain cases where electrocoagulation should be used, such as
 in cases with heart disease, the aged,
 and those who bleed too easily.

It is agreed among physicians and surgeons that tonsils if healthy
 should not be removed until past
 the age of puberty, when they are supposed to gradually disappear. If tonsils still remain after 30 years of age, they are not only of no use to the body but may be a source of danger from infection.

The electrocoagulation method
 consists of using a local anesthetic, inserting a small needle into the tonsil, the needle is drawn toward the middle of the throat, and then,
 and not till then, the electric current
 is turned on for 3 or 4 seconds.

Treatments are given about five days apart, and the number of treatments varies with the size of the tonsils—two treatments for a small ton-sil, eight or ten for a tonsil of large size.

Other surgeons find that to successfully remove large tonsils as many as 15 to 20 visits must be made to their office.

The thought then is that surgery
 is still considered the best or most successful method of removing tonsils, but when surgery is not considered safe or when the patient is unwilling to undergo operation, electrocoagulation offers an excellent
 method for tonsil removal.

ENEMY'S KISS

Chapter 43
 LIES

"GUY LUMLEY told me himself,"
 there were two bright pink spots in Alison's cheeks, two flames
 of anger, "that you had whisked
 your husband off in an airplane because you were afraid."

"I know! That's his story. The story he told everyone." Daphne was tragically patient. "That I wanted to—to finish what I'd begun
 and so I carried my husband away!
 It never seemed to strike Lumley
 that apart from anything else I'd not much motive, considering that his death left me a beggar!"

"You didn't know about the annuity until your husband was dead?"
 Alison flung that at her. "You said
 so yourself, in a restaurant to that man Gomper!"

"Did Dr. Lumley say that?"
 Daphne seemed almost shocked. She turned back to Robert pitifully.
 "You know, I don't believe there's anything that he could say that he hasn't said against me! He's a very convincing liar! And he hates me like poison! Why he's even been down to Scotland Yard, prying about and trying to find out if he could get hold of any gossip against me! And then coming down to my house the other night!"

"You know perfectly well that you sent him there! Alison could not hold her tongue!"

"I did? My dear, why on earth should I? Daphne was almost blind. "Do be sensible, Alison!
 You may dislike me, but you can't imagine that I'd be such a fool as to send a man who hated me to pick up gossip to use against me!"

"You sent him down to Warley because you hoped I'd get killed."

"Alison!" Her father thundered that.

A reproachful little cry from Daphne. "Alison! You promised me you wouldn't tell any more lies if I told the truth!"

She turned hurriedly on Robert.
 "That's what I mean, Bob. He's absolutely poisoned the child's mind
 against me, so that she'd believe anything! I think if he told her that I meant to kill you or kill her, she'd believe that! He's taught her to look on me as a sort of monster."

"Alison doesn't believe anything of the sort," her father answered for her. "Nor do I. In any case, it doesn't matter what she thinks."

"But it does!" declared Daphne.
 "That's just it. If you knew the sort of time I'd had, just because of him!
 Everywhere I went, I'd settle down,
 hope for a little peace. And then the old story'd start over again. I got so desperate, Bob, that I'd have gladly gone to the Home Office, asked for an examination order myself! I'd have been glad to face even that sort of publicity rather than go on like this."

"Then why didn't you get an examination order?" Alison asked harshly, bitterly.

Daphne said simply, "I couldn't,
 unfortunately. You see, my husband'd always been terrified of being buried alive. So he made me promise to cremate him."

"Very convenient," Alison's eyes were blazing.

"You see?" Daphne said that to Robert, pitifully. "That's what it's been like, always. I'm judged without evidence, found guilty!"

"M' dear, forget it!" he pleaded.
 "I can't." She gave a cry.
 "I've been so desperate that I've been driven to lie, even to you!"
 Her tone dropped to a whisper, a slow, rustling whisper more tragic than tears. "I'm not defending myself! I know I was wrong! But,
 oh my dear! when you came along—
 I could hardly dare to think that you were really true!"

"Trust me now, then." He was impetuous as he leaned over to her.
 "Trust me and forget all I don't want to hear the rest! We won't think of it—and if anyone tries to—I'll bludgeon at Alison herself that thrust 'Till she they don't touch
 you."

"You don't know what you're saying. Ask her what she said to me just before you came in!"

"What did you say?" He was terrifying when he looked so stern, almost as if he meant to hit her, but Alison answered him without waver-ing.

"I asked her if you knew her real name! I asked her if you knew that her real name was 'Poyster'."

But Daphne now did not shrink or show fear. She smiled evenly.

"You see? She's even primed the child with that!"

"I don't see," he began, puzzled.
 "Don't you?" said Daphne bitterly.

"It's true, you see. That is my real name. I lied to you, Bob, I didn't dare to tell you. I was too afraid! You might've heard those stories. You might have realized that I was Mrs. Poyster who was supposed to be a murderess!"

"My poor darling!"

"So I went back to my maiden name—Stewart." With a gesture of resignation she said Robert's diamond ring off her finger, held it out to him. "I'm almost glad, Bob, that she's found out!"

Alison caught her breath. Her father had gone white.

"Daphne!" He caught her to him, pleading. "Daphne, darling, don't talk like that! Do you suppose I care what people say?"

"Oh, Bob..."

Daphne swayed suddenly towards
 him; his arms closed round her.
 Alison sprang forward.

"Father! Please! Don't believe her! She's lying! She sent those telegrams wrong on purpose! She tried to kill me! The words came tumbling out. 'Oh, please, listen to me! Don't you see I'm frightened,'

"Hold your tongue!" her father
 ordered roughly. "Haven't you done enough harm?"

But Alison would not yield. "Will you just wait," she pleaded. "Will you just wait till Guy Lumley comes,
 hear the other side?"

By way of answer he took both Daphne's hands, bent and kissed her mouth.

"Go and get into the car, Alison,"
 he said without turning his head.
 And to Daphne, "Get your hat on.
 We're going to get married now."

ROBERT touched the bell. The slatternly maid answered so promptly that she must have been just outside the door. Her round face was flushed as though she had been stooping; her eyes goggled at Alison
 in a scared sort of fashion.

Robert looked at her limp, untidy
 hair and dirty apron with disgust as he said, "Go out and tell the chauffeur, please, to come in and fetch
 our mistress's luggage."

The girl obeyed.

Daphne had gone through into her bedroom and she could be heard in there, opening drawers, humming
 softly as she put her hat on and gathered up her bag and gloves. The small white Chinese slave dog with his pert nose and proud plume of tail came from the bedroom, sniffed
 at Alison's feet as she stood by the window, looking anxiously up the street.

What had happened to Guy? Why didn't he come? If he would only hurry—I it was more than half an hour since Alison had left him in the street—what could be doing? He had only got to give his name and address to the police! Even now, if he would only come, they might persuade her father that Daphne was lying, that he was in danger!

Robert, whistling, had picked up
 the little white dog and was stroking it; he lit himself a cigarette. The chauffeur came in and Alison watched him with a sinking heart
 as he carried out the rawhide trunk.

The little maid followed from Daphne's bedroom, staggering under two heavy suitcases and a round hatbox, a rug over her arm. Their feet rang on the stone steps outside and from the window Alison could see them reach the car.

There was a woman sitting in the seat beside the driver's place and with a pang of fear Alison saw that she was wearing a maid's grey dress.
 A big, beetle-browed, coarse-faced
 woman of middle age, with sleek
 black hair.

Alison, watching the clock hands
 move forward in sharp, short jerks,
 almost prayed, "Oh, let him come!
 Please let him come!"

"Is there anything more, sir?" The man stood at attention by the door.
 "One more trunk inside," called
 Daphne and he vanished.

As they disappeared, Robert said
 to Alison, "Go on and get into the car."

"I'm not going with you."

She put so sudden a dash to that; said
 it fast. Robert crossed the room and shut the door. He, too, spoke quietly.

"You are my daughter and you're under age. You're going to do exactly what I say."

There was a brisk flash about that statement. And it was true, that was the worst of it! She broke out passionately.

"Father, you don't understand!
 See me now to tell me. Don't you see? Are you blind? You can't have any money till I'm dead and that's why she tried to 'work'—oh!"
 (Cries, June 15, 1935, Kingston Daily Freeman)

Monday, Alison's case appears
 over more pages.

AGRICULTURE

Better is one of the first foods
 mentioned in the Bible.

Not a single casualty occurred last year at more than 24 million supervised street crossings for school children.

According to the late Dr. Henry Sumner, an critic, "You can not tell the other fellow what is beautiful and make him sensitive to it. The best you can do is to expose him to it."

Aids in buying furniture are given in Cornell Bulletin E-237. Single copies will be mailed on request from the office of publication, Roberts
 Hall, Ithaca, New York.

Although the amount of labor

time does not differ among farm and city women, farm women spend more of their time in study and meetings
 and less on talks and visits than do
 city women.

Only persons who are definitely
 known to be immune to try potential should attempt to eradicate the plant by digging it up, because the stems and roots as well as the leaves
 contain the potent poison oil.

"Weightless," a process that adds
 weight to cotton, or vegetable substances or mineral salts to silk, is a common practice in the manufacture of cheap materials to add to the advanced weight of the fabric and to give it more body.

Approximately 700 farm boys and girls from all parts of the state will gather at the New York state college of agriculture here for the four-month annual 4-H Club conference
 June 20 to July 2.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, June 15—The ground
 in front of the Woodstock garage is being lowered to meet the level of the new road and a ramp will probably be constructed to admit cars to the garage. The concrete stand for the hydraulic grease rack was cracked in several places while moving but can be sealed with fresh concrete.

Harvey Emrich has been busy moving several trees in the village back from the line of the new road. By digging away in back of the trees
 they can be moved back the necessary number of feet.

The town has literally "folded up
 and pulled in the sidewalks" for all curbing and bluestone walks have been moved to safety until the road work is completed. In fact Woodstock is nearly unrecognizable in the confusion of digging, trucking and blasting.

The picnic supper to be held at the Elroy farm was postponed because of the important school meeting on the same evening.

Mrs. R. E. Malloy, her son, Garden and daughter, Patricia, arrived from Miami Monday, accompanied by Dorothy Drew of Boston and Miss Noel Thompson. The party motored from Miami, stopping for a day with relatives in Washington.

 nity Methodist Episcopal Church on

SHOKAN

Shokan, June 14—Mrs. Mathilde
 Krehel and daughter, Elzior and Meta, of Montclair, N. J., have arrived at their summer residence here.
 Children's Day exercises, held in the Shokan Reformed Church Sunday morning and in the Ashokan M.
 E. Church the same evening, were well attended.

Orval Fortson has named his farm in the heights section, formerly the John Klip place, after Toran's Hook Mountain at whose base the farmhouse is situated.

Mrs. Bert Jones of Kingston, a former resident of Ashokan, was a caller in the hub of the reservoir
 country Sunday.

Joe Aronofsky of Olive Bridge
 bought several head of cattle in northern Ulster during the week. Mr.
 Aronofsky, one time resident of Ellenville, has renovated the old Barton store and is conducting a butcher
 shop in the building.

Mrs. E. C. Burgher, teacher of the local school, accompanied by several of her pupils journeyed to Albany
 Saturday by motor bus, leaving here

Saturday Social Review

The Kingston Women's College Club closed their year of activity with an annual picnic at Watson Hollow Inn on Tuesday evening of this week. Many of the guests arrived early to enjoy the porch and spacious lawns, commanding a sweeping view of the Ashokan Reservoir and the surrounding Catskill peaks. At 6 o'clock Mrs. Myron Teller served a delicious supper which the guests enjoyed with groups of friends either at tables in the dining room or on the terraces. Following the supper there was a short business session at which time, Mrs. N. Le Van Haver, acting president, called upon the secretary and treasurer for their annual reports. At this time also Miss Mary Mully, of New Paltz, was accepted as an active member. Miss Mully is a graduate of Columbia University with the degree of A. B. and M. A. The scholarship fund committee reported that the scholarship which is given annually to a girl of the senior class at Kingston High School had been awarded for the coming year to Miss Miriam Foster of Marlinton, who expects to enter Houghton College in September. Mrs. Joseph McNeill, chairman of the committee for arrangements, reported that the club would again hold its meetings at Mrs. Finch's Tea Room.

Mrs. Haver then called Mrs. William Hasbrouck, newly-elected president, to the chair. Mrs. Hasbrouck, in assuming office, explained that during the coming year the club would divide itself into study groups each of a program. Mrs. Hasbrouck explained that an executive committee would be appointed to review all problems before they are brought before the club.

She then announced the committee for the coming year. Executive committee: President, Mrs. William F. Hasbrouck; first vice-president, Mrs. John L. MacKinnon; second vice-president, Mrs. Myron S. Teller; recording secretary, Miss Elsie Rice; corresponding secretary, Mrs. James H. Betts; treasurer, Miss Ethel Mauterstock; together with Miss Evelyn Nance and Mrs. Charles Arnold as committee members. Those who will arrange the program for the coming year are Mrs. James J. Murphy, Jr., chairman, Miss Mary E. Wonne, Miss Grace MacArthur and Mrs. Henry Goldsworthy. Mrs. Clarence Dumm, chairman, and Mrs. Raymond Lewis will appoint the hostess committees to entertain at the different meetings. The membership committee are Mrs. Bernard Joy, chairman, assisted by Miss Dorothy Brooks, Miss Mary Hubbard, Miss Ruth Burns, Mrs. Kenneth LeFevre, and Miss Catherine McCommons; publicity, Miss Agnes Scott Smith; lecture committee, Miss Mary E. Noone, chairman, Miss Agnes Scott Smith and Mrs. Charles Arnold. This committee will be assisted by a scholarship fund committee: Mrs. J. Richard Shultz, chairman, Mrs. J. Le Van Haver, Mrs. Howard St. John, Mrs. Joseph McNeill, Mrs. Stanley Dempsey and Mrs. Ida K. Sherman. The membership of the scholarship fund committee are Miss Ethel M. Hull, chairman, Mrs. Rose K. Witter and Mrs. R. Wilson Norwood.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the members lingered for a further social hour. Those arranging for this outing were Mrs. Ashton Hart, chairman, Mrs. Howard St. John and Mrs. Harry Halverson.

The Wednesday Bridge Club motored to Wawarsing where they closed their year with a luncheon and an afternoon of cards. Those attending were: Mrs. A. Ols Davis, Mrs. Parker Brininger, Mrs. Arthur Frigot, Mrs. Arthur Davis, Mrs. Arthur Davis, Mrs. Ernest LeFevre, Miss Sarah Humphrey, Mrs. Viola Babcock and Mrs. Harry Richter.

Henry Herbert Shultz of Albany and William Shultz of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., are spending some time at the Shultz cabin at Winook, Slide Mountain, Olivera.

Miss Josephine Pratt, who recently completed a year of study at the Connecticut College for Women, has returned to her home in Highland. Miss Pratt was one of those accorded the honor of bearing the laurel chain at the commencement festivities at the college.

Miss Katrina Fischer, who has been studying at Munich, Germany, is visiting her aunt, Frau Oscar Lindner, at Zurich, Switzerland. From there, she will go to Paris where she will be the guest of Captain and Mrs. Dessez. Captain Dessez is one of a small group of U. S. Army officers who have been accorded the honor of studying at the Ecole de Guerre. Miss Fischer will sail for home on the "Europa" arriving at New York on June 27.

On page 3 of the July Ladies' Home Journal, there appears a photograph and short life sketch of Frances Frost, state poet of Vermont, while on page 53 is one of her poems, "Adventure at Morning". Miss Frost was chosen in 1923 by the Yale University Press as the best of the younger American poets of that year, and they selected her book, "Hemlock Wall", for publication.

Her most recent book, "Woman of This Earth", received the highest criticism in both the Herald-Tribune and the New York Times Book Reviews.

Miss Frost is a niece of Andrew J. Koebe of 231 Washington avenue.

Mrs. John Hall of Delta Place entertained her club at luncheon and bridge at her home Wednesday.

Miss May W. Casdin of New York city is spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. John P. Woodley of Embury Farm, Hurley.

New York, June 15 (AP).—While scattered profit taking appeared in today's brief stock market session, the general firmness of the rails kept the list in an optimistic mood. For the most part, however, rains were small. The metals were somewhat reactionary. The closing tone was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 520,000 shares.

Improvement in the labor situation was helpful to sentiment and business news was not as cloudy as had been expected in some quarters. The Commerce Department reported general gains in retail trade throughout the United States, but it was thought favorable weather conditions had much to do with this. Washington developments apparently were not especially exciting, market-wise.

Uncertainty as to the treasury's future silver buying program was said to have caused selling in the mining group. U. S. Smelting dropped about 2 points and Cerro de Pasco and American Smelting were off around a point each.

PROFESSOR BLAMES "MORAL SLUMP" ON "BEST SELLERS"

Urbana, Ill. (AP).—If America has suffered a moral slump, and Dr. E. C. Baldwin, University of Illinois English professor, says it has—the cause in his opinion can be laid directly to "best seller" books.

Such books, says the professor, have been both dirty and morally misleading during the last two decades, and have tended to undermine honesty, sobriety and all the other cardinal principles of civilization.

Dr. Baldwin says the responsible authors belong to the "intellectual school of fiction." Any attempt to defend them because of "uncompromising honesty" with the facts of life is outweighed, he says, by the harm their books have done.

Official Visit to Order of Eastern Star

Worthy Olympia Cottine, junior deputy of the Greene-Lister District, Order of the Eastern Star, made her official visit to Rip Van Winkle Triangle, No. 31, Daughters of the Eastern Star, Thursday evening, June 13, in spite of the warm weather the meeting was largely attended by members of the Greene-Lister and surrounding districts. Miss Janet Finley, beloved queen, presided over the meeting with dignity. The room was transformed into a beautiful garden setting with flowers and palms. Miss Almedia Gerlach and Miss Edna Beatty were responsible for the lovely decorations. Following the opening ceremonies, Mrs. Cottine was escorted from the room by the marshals. At the same time the officers taking part in the degree retired. The officers made a beautiful picture as they re-entered the room, dressed in white, with collars and cuffs of pastel shades and carrying long stemmed roses. They formed two lines west of the altar and made an arch of roses for the junior deputy to pass under as she re-entered the room accompanied by the district deputy grand matron, Right Worthy May L. Dean, who paid a fitting tribute to Mrs. Cottine's splendid qualities as she introduced her to the beloved queen. Miss Finley graciously welcomed the honored guest, on behalf of Rip Van Winkle Triangle. Mrs. Cottine was escorted to the East through a winding lane, and as she passed along the way she was presented with beautiful red roses from the officers of the Triangle. Mrs. Cottine was called upon and addressed the gathering in her usual charming manner, congratulating the girls upon their splendid work. She paid tribute to her superior officers, the most worthy grand matron of the state of New York and the state director of the Triangle. She thanked the words of introduction and the beloved queen for the sincere welcome, and closed her remarks with a beautiful poem.

The following honored guests were called upon and responded briefly, congratulating the girls upon the impressive manner in which their meeting was conducted, paying fitting tribute to Mrs. Cottine's splendid leadership and wishing both Mrs. Cottine and Rip Van Winkle Triangle continued success: R. W. May L. Dean, D. G. M. of the Greene-Lister District; R. W. David W. Boyd, A. G. L. of the Greene-Lister District; R. W. Florence Ball, Grand Adah of the Grand Chapter and supervisor of Rip Van Winkle Triangle; R. W. Harriet Campbell, grand representative of the state of South Carolina; Worthy Edna L. Van Tassel, past junior deputy, and Miss Arlene Bartlett, organizing junior deputy. Right Worthy May L. Dean presented a gift to Mrs. Cottine from the members of Rip Van Winkle Triangle. Other presentations were made to Mrs. Cottine by Mary Howard, Mary Smith and Katherine Melbert. The beloved queen was appreciably surprised when Miss Edna Beatty presented a beautiful basket of flowers to her from the officers and members of Rip Van Winkle Triangle. Miss Finley, however, was equal to the occasion and expressed her thanks and appreciation for the lovely flowers. Mrs. Edith Finley, supervisor and mother of the beloved queen, was responsible for preparing the degree and executing same. Much credit is due her for her part in the evening's work.

Additional Workers For the Blind Sale

The church committees of Kingston ask all to patronize the Sale for the Blind which is now being conducted in the store at 280-282 Fair street. They point out the fact that the sightless producers don't want charity or pity, but ask only for the chance to earn an honest living, be self-supporting, and to have a few of the pleasures of life. The blind workers are the only beneficiaries of this sale, for the selling price of each article is made up of the cost of materials plus the wage paid the sightless worker. When you patronize this sale you are not only receiving full value for your dollar, but you are also helping this greatly handicapped group to become independent instead of being dependent on public or private charity.

One of the featured articles at the sale is the very useful broom cover which is about the best on the market. The ruffled edge permits it to go into all corners during household work. The inexpensive rainbow colored dust cloths are also very valuable, for they are washable, yet soft, so that they leave no lint or scratches on the finest furniture. It will pay everyone to stock up on these articles which the blind make and sell at prices close to cost.

On Tuesday, June 18, the following churches will conduct the sale: 10 a. m.—2 p. m.—Fair Street Reformed Church, Mrs. H. I. DuBois, chairman, Mrs. M. H. Herzog, Mrs. William H. Van Etten, Mrs. H. R. LeFever, Mrs. A. D. Relyea, Mrs. Stanley Winne, Mrs. Leonard Flicker, Mrs. H. D. Eltinge, Mrs. H. McClary, Mrs. E. F. MacFadden, Mrs. Ette Sweeney, Mrs. S. Lowe, Mrs. William Carnell, Mrs. Herbert V. The last meeting of the school year of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 6 was held at the school on Tuesday afternoon, June 11.

Reports of the various committees showed many accomplishments during the year, and that the organization was in a flourishing condition.

After a short business session the newly elected officers were installed by Mrs. Mary E. Hayes, as follows: President, Mrs. Frank Hill; first vice president, Mrs. George Kenny; second vice president, Mrs. James Mathers; third vice president, Mrs. Addison Jones; secretary, Mrs. Augustus Shufeldt; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Garland.

A delightful social half hour was spent at which dainty refreshments were served.

On July 21, a lawn fete will be given by the association at the garden of Mrs. George J. Schantz, No. 171 O'Neill street, to which the public is cordially invited.

Daddy Schmalkuche and Natalie Winters were reported ill and the members were asked to send cards to them.

LUXEMBURG RELEASES HISTORICAL STAMP ISSUE
Luxemburg, land of royalty and colorful postage stamps, has again set a philatelic precedent. It has issued a set of stamps notable not only for their beauty, but for their unusual historic value. The issue represents the first humane usage of postal stickers.

The issue—15 large, colorful stamps—holds promise of becoming a wise investment for philatelists and dealers, as well as adding a much needed bit of color to the drab pages of modern continental. The stamps were created not only for their normal use but as a means whereby professional men—doctors, lawyers, professors, architects—who are refugees from the Hitler government could help to establish themselves in other lands.

In addition to the face value of the set, $1.97, an additional $1.97 has been added to the cost of the stamps. There is no place in the world where they can be bought for less than double their face value. The Grand Duchy has so decreed in its agreement with the International Association for Aid to Intellectual Refugees which has its headquarters in Geneva.

All of the funds above the face value of the stamps realized from sales will be given by Luxemburg to the Association to provide relief for professional men seeking a haven outside of Germany. The Association is assured of fully half the money received, since Glimbel's is handling the sales at its own expense and without charge.

Clubs all over the country are taking up the cry "Add the new Luxemburg set to your collection and profit doubly. Firstly by filling your album with attractive stamps and secondly by making a sound investment."

Another line could also be added to that, "And help relieve a lot of unnecessary misery and sorrow."

'DARLING, IT WAS LIKE THIS'

Jimmy Braddock, the new heavyweight champ of the world, tells his wife just how he licked Max Baer as the two talk it over in New York on the morning after. "Darling, it was like this," Jimmy has just said, demonstrating with a brawny arm and fist. To which Mrs. Braddock answered: "Gosh, Jimmy, you're grand." (Associated Press Photo)

Serial Place of Norse Gods
In Old Uppsala, north of Stockholm, are three huge mounds beneath which, ancient legend says, the old Norse gods—Odin, Thor and Freya—were buried when they died on the introduction of Christianity. Modern scholarship, however, contends that they are ceremonial mounds. From the highest the ancient kings addressed their people when the tribes assembled for what the Scandinavians called a "thing." Near the mounds is the sacred grove where, on festival days, thousands of victims were slaughtered in Odin's name. The castle in modern Uppsala, incidentally, was the favorite home of Queen Kristina. Here she abdicated the Swedish throne.

Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus Here June 29

The great Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Bros. combined circus will present afternoon and night performances in Kingston on Saturday, June 29, and circus enthusiasts of this vicinity will be on hand to participate in the gala event. The circus will be held at the Fair Grounds.

To commemorate the combination of the famous old Forepaugh-Sells Bros. show with the largest trained wild animal circus in the world, many startling new features have been added for the 1935 program. These include Maria Rasputin, sensational European wild animal trainer and daughter of the famous Russian monk, Grigori Rasputin, who ruled the Romanoffs with the power of his hypnotic eyes prior to his demise in 1918; Bert Nelson, youngest of the wild animal subjugators, with more than a score of fighting, jungle-bred lions and tigers; John Heliott, renowned German trainer of savage beasts; Maximo, comedian of the slack wire; the famed Christiani troupe of bareback riders in somersaults from horse to horse; the Flying Codonase, the Hills and a great group of aerialists; Rudyard, noted equestrian and his educated horses; the Merkle, who walk upside down on lofty mirrors in the dome of the big tent; "Cheerful" Gardiner and twenty performing elephants; scores of clowns led by Earl Shipley, Paul Jerome and the Paul Jung Clowns Acrobatic Trio; dozens of pretty equestriennes, a huge Oriental spectacle and a big contingent of Indians, cowboys and cowgirls from the Pawnee Bill Ranch of Old Town, Oklahoma.

Performances will be presented at 2 and 8 p. m., with doors open one hour earlier in each instance to permit leisurely inspection of the world's largest and finest traveling wild animal menagerie which boasts among other zoological marvels a baby giraffe.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Bros. Combined Circus is a railroad show, moving on two trains of double-length steel cars.

Aviation, Romance Mix in New Serial, 'Ready Made Wife'

Many planes have been lost in futile attempts to span the oceans, but no tragedy of the air has had a stranger sequel than that in "Ready Made Wife." The Freeman's new serial starting Wednesday, June 19.

Coralie Stanton tells the story with an appreciation of dramatic values which sustains throughout the story the interest aroused at its start, when Laurie Moore is introduced as the attractive young widow of Rex Moore, never heard from since his take-off on a Pacific adventure.

His name is barely out of the headlines when Laurie Moore arrives from Australia and soon is in the employ of Mark Albery, whose plane factory had backed Rex Moore's flight. Albery and her fellow employees pay Laurie the respect they feel due the widow of the renowned flier, still honored at the factory for his technical ability and his daring as an aviator. Yet to Albery there is something strange about this young woman who withdraws into a silence and a reserve whenever, blundering or with a confused attempt at tact, he refers to Rex Moore and Laurie's widowhood.

Albery's interest in Laurie rests not only on his appreciation of her business ability, but also on a regard more personal. While he musters his courage, hoping to tell Laurie of this feeling, a fateful coincidence brings her into a chance meeting with a stranger who tells her something about Rex Moore that fills her with despair. The discovery complicates all of her relationships, present and prospective, and until her problem at last disappears in a happy solution her life is under a cloud.

This, briefly, is the story of "Ready Made Wife." Readers who start with the first chapter Wednesday, June 19, in The Freeman, will find it throughout an exciting combination of romance and adventure.

We don't have the exact age of our race, but it's old enough to know better.

We've just been celebrating Debt Repudiation Week, but not very enthusiastically. Why not call it Peace Week? We'll keep out of war as long as we remember those debts.

A total of $98,000,000,000 of life insurance now is in force in the United States, according to John R. Mage of Los Angeles, president of the Life Underwriters' Association.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

HOLLYWOOD—Curtain parade: The movies play no favorites. "Mr. Grant" and "General Robert E. Lee" are both to reach the screen, but from different studios. . . . These with "So Red the Rose" will bring back the War Between the States as a screen setting, neglected for some time. . . . And if even one of them is a hit, there'll be more Old South movies.

Fay Wray will be getting her final papers of American citizenship in the next few days, and after doing one picture here she expects to be off again to England, where her husband, John Monk Saunders, is still writing for British movies. . . . Fay did two films during the six months she was away from Hollywood, and may do another when she goes back. . . . But for a place to live the Saunderses are still choosing Hollywood.

At The Theatres

Broadway: "Our Little Girl"

Once again little Shirley Temple proves her ability to hold a backfired plot on her tiny shoulders and carry it along to another screen triumph. She does it in this show and comes through with such an engaging performance that it is hard to think of the day she will outgrow her childhood roles and fade into the oblivion that other child actors have always found awaiting them. In this show, Miss Temple is a family "patter-upper," a daughter whose parents are breaking up their happiness through misunderstanding. She straightens out their troubles for them and brings them together when everything seems to have gone completely haywire. The show is a tribute to Miss Temple's ability to perform realistically in any drama she is starred in, and the entire production becomes a first rate motion picture because of her dainty presence and genuine charm. Joel McCrea, Rosemary Ames, Erin O'Brien-Moore and Lyle Talbot are in the cast of supporting players.

Orpheum "Affairs of Cellini" and "Northern Frontier" Cellini, Italian master of art and women, comes to the screen in the handsome figure of Frederic March, and the show is a grand comedy drama, bright with subtlety, colorful with pageantry and sparkling with clever dialogue. It tells of Cellini's affairs with various women during his wild and adventurous life, and never was Mr. March seen to better advantage. Frank Morgan and Constance Bennett are also in the cast. "Northern Frontier" is a James Oliver Curwood story with Kermit Maynard starred.

Kingston: "Under the Pampas Moon"

Warner Baxter, who rose to rapid fame through a picture called "In Old Arizona" years ago, returns to a similar role in this romantic melodrama, and Mr. Baxter sports a wavy Argentine haircut and a carefully cultured accent during the course of the action. Laid in South America, the story centers around a fun loving Argentine cowboy who gets enmeshed in many things when an airplane is forced down on his fields. One of the passengers is a woman. From her and from others he learns the trickery of civilization and the whole show is a cautious indictment against modern society. It has humor, capable acting and several thrilling sequences. Warner Baxter is at his best in the starring role and Ketti Gallian proves to be an excellent leading lady. Good entertainment.

Tomorrow

Orpheum: "A Shot in the Dark" Clifford "Or" O'Connell's mystery novel known as "The Dartmouth Murders" becomes a thrilling motion picture when seen on the Orpheum screen and much of the play's success is due to the fine work of Charles Starrett, Marion Shilling, and Robert Warwick. The action is swift, the murders mysterious and unexplainable and there are moments of humor to break up the tension. "The Three Musketeers" with John Wayne is an added feature on the bill.

Kingston: "The Informer". The voices of the critics, usually anxious to pick flaws and show errors, have sung nothing but glowing praises for this RKO masterpiece of emotion and terror. It contains, without question, the finest photography, direction and acting of any play to come out of the Hollywood movie mills, and Victor McLaglen in the role of Gypo Nolan rises to heights rarely attained by any artist. The action takes place in Ireland during the Rebellion, and Gypo Nolan, slow of mind and strong of body, becomes an informer when he betrays a pal for a twenty pound reward offered by the English soldiery. From the moment of his betrayal until the dawn of the next morning, Nolan suffers for his shame and his cowardice in the battle that stirs through his slow witted mind over the deed he has done to a friend. And always, behind him comes his certain doom, awaiting the moment for him to make one false mistake. For sheer dramatic power, Nolan's futile, mad and terrifying wanderings have never been equalled on the screen. The screen play was written by Liam O'Flaherty and John Ford directed. The cast offers Preston Foster, Wallace Ford, Heather Angel, Una O'Connor, and Margot Graham. A magnificent production, compelling and real.

Fashions and Household Hints for Women

Style Offers Knitted Chic For Evening

By ADELAIDE KERR

Paris. (AP)—Knitted chic is playing an increasing role in summer fashions.

Evening gowns, dinner frocks and afternoon dresses have been added to the sports costumes and suits being reeled off the needles. New stitches such as one color Scotch plaid effects and palm leaf, diamond and dot patterns appear, while wool, silk and combination yarns of artificial silk and cotton are all being used.

Knitted evening gowns are being chosen by several smart women, who find them practical for weekend wear, since they emerge relatively uncrushed from luggage. Anny Blatt makes a white one of artificial silk and cotton yarn done in a stitch which resembles a close fishnet and spaced by gold stripes half an inch wide. A silver belt with a shell clasp completes it.

Worn By Modish Women.
Mrs. Beverly Bogert of Newport wears a black knitted evening frock by the same designer fashioned in a two piece design with a low back decollete, while Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the London theatrical producer has a mauve dinner frock knit of artificial silk and cotton yarn and finished with a flat collar, elbow length sleeves and a belt of brown seal leather.

Madame Louise Bleriot, wife of the aviation pioneer, is among those wearing knitted afternoon frocks. Hers is a silk model knitted in a loose lacy stitch with a black skirt and a white tunic blouse completed by a big jabot. Other striking afternoon models combine one piece frocks and matching jackets of navy or sky blue.

Sport Frocks.

Sports frocks come in both silk and wool with patterned knits taking the preference over ribbed effects. Grass green wool knitted in zig-zag pattern makes a smart two piece frock finished with dark green leather clips and belt which Madame Jacques Stern, wife of the French deputy took to America with her on the Normandie while Lady Ribblesdale (the former Mrs. John Jacob Astor) wears a costume of pink wool belted and buttoned with brown leather.

Blouses knitted with big dots—something new in knitting stitches—are another novelty this season. Frau Roland Koester, wife of the German ambassador to France, has one in cream with big brown dots.

Grow Your Own Perennials from Seed

Delphiniums and Hollyhocks are the tallest perennials and no perennial border can well do without them. When it comes to those of medium height ranging between 3 and 4 feet, there is a wide selection. These, however, form the mainstays for sheets of bloom at various times during the season. For the earliest display, starting in mid-May, as the tulips and waxes, come the pyrethrums or painted daisies and the columbines.

In the latter there is a wide latitude as to blooming season, extending from late April through July. The pyrethrums come all at once in great sheets of bloom for a month, with later scattering bloom.

Pyrethrums are one of the finest of cutting materials, the long-stemmed daisies, sometimes growing 3 feet tall, keeping for days when cut. They range in color from pure white to palest pink, rose, scarlet, maroon and crimson. The dark shades are the rarest and a packet of seed will give a prevailing number of light tones. To get a good strain of pyrethrums it is necessary, first of all, to buy a good strain of seed from a reliable seedman.

It is necessary also to grow a much larger number of plants than you really need and select the types. It is best to grow the seedlings in a packet will give scores of them—in rows like vegetables until they bloom. Then take the ones you want and throw the rest away.

Propagating any particularly fine variety by division, which is easily done. There will be a large number of plants with washed out coloring. Select those of clear color and throw away the inferior ones.

Columbines do not need this selection, as they show a wide diversity of color but not much diversity in size or form if the seed is from a good strain. Mrs. Scott Elliott's strain of long spurred is as fine as any. There are fine-named types that come fairly true from seed. You may select the color you like in columbines, but it is one perennial which, because of its soft coloring, is as effective in mixed coloring as given in separate colors. It is best in shade, but will grow well in full sun. Set plants a foot apart for masses of bloom.

SHINE ON CLOTHES MAY BE REMOVED BY SIMPLE MEANS.

To get rid of that shine in garments, sponge with water to which a dash of ammonia has been added—about one teaspoonful to a quart of water. Then press on the reverse side.

If you will cover silver that you are packing away with dry flour it will keep it from tarnishing. Lemon and salt blended will do a good deal toward removing rust from something that has been pressed with the hot iron. Hold the garment over steam after you have applied the lemon and salt cure.

When curtains, spreads and such have become so soiled you wonder how you're ever going to wash them, soak in cold water overnight and add a dash of borax. The dirt will come out easily when you wash the following day.

Now It's Knit Frocks For Formal Wear

KNITTED afternoon and evening frocks are now on style lists for chic dress wear. Whisky is the name of the afternoon frock at right. It is knitted of silk in a lacy weave with a white blouse and black skirt. It is from the mid-season collection of Anny Blatt who also designed the knitted evening frock, left, which is a two-piece model in white silk, part of it knitted in a blister design. A belt and flower of deep red grosgrain finish it. These knitted frocks are being chosen by many smart women who find them extremely practical for weekend wear, since they may be taken from the luggage in wearable condition. Principally they are knit of artificial silk and cotton yarn.

Cut Flowers From Garden

By The Master Gardener

Did you ever consider that the flowers in your garden are one of the few exceptions to the rule that "you can't have your cake and eat it too?" I mean just that! If you keep cutting flowers to help add interest and cheer in your home, or in that of a friend, you'll get more flowers. If you don't cut them, all you'll get is seed, and it won't be of the quality you'll care to plant next year. So feel free to cut plenty of flowers to brighten up every corner. Just be sure to feed the plants with complete plant food. Novelty departments are featuring a world of interesting vases and jars suitable for flowers.

An objection which so many folks have to cutting flowers is that the flowers wilt and fade so quickly. I thought you'd be interested in a few suggestions which if followed will greatly improve the lasting qualities of garden flowers.

The keeping qualities of flowers are determined by several factors such as the kind of flower, quantity of moisture in the stem at the time of cutting, method of cutting, time of cutting, and the handling after cutting. The wilting of flowers is due to their inability to maintain a sufficient supply of water through the stems to keep pace with evaporation through foliage and flowers. Bacteria multiply quickly in water and attack the stems, causing them to clog.

Morning is the best time to cut flowers for this is the time the stems contain the most moisture. Use a sharp knife, making a slant cut, if you do not have a regular flower cutter. Have a bucket of water with you when you go for the flowers and plunge them into the water up to the bloom as soon as cut. Allow them to stay in cold water in the basement or a darkened room for several hours, if at all possible, before arranging them in vases.

Wide-mouthed vases are best for them permit more air to reach the water. That's very important for it helps to keep the water fresh. This is also the reason vases should not be crowded, though few folks are guilty of this today. We have learned that a charming arrangement of a few flowers is so much more satisfactory.

Handling the flowers properly from garden plant to your vase is very important but it is equally important that you change the water in the vase frequently and cut the stems back so that the plants can absorb the fresh water. Changing the water once a day is usually sufficient though some folk like to take the flowers out of the vases at night and store them in a bucket of cold water overnight, cutting the stems before returning to the vases.

I could go on and on but I have given you the basic principles of keeping cut garden flowers longer. But I do want to say something about time of cutting because that is important. The peas, which is so popular this month, should be cut when the petals are unfolding; roses should be cut before the buds are open; gladioli when the first flower is open; dahlias and daisies when fully open. Mentioning dahlias reminds me that I have not told you about the hot water treatment to prevent downward sap flow. I'll tell you about this closer to dahlia blooming time.

SUMMER HINTS

If you live where there is a great deal of dampness, near the seashore or where there are early morning and evening fogs and mists, and you have trouble with your open salt cellars, keep them covered with glass when not in use.

You'll probably be washing your hair more often during the summer, and if there is a slight wave to your hair you will protect it by parting the hair while wet, setting it the way your wave goes and covering your head with a damp heavy bath towel for a little while. Then dry in the sun.

If you have bought yourself a lovely new bathing suit this season you will want to protect it. Always wash it out in fresh water after you have been in the salt water. It gives the suit longer life and makes it dry much more quickly.

Easy Jelly-Making

"Easy does it," says the twentieth century. "Don't bite off more than you can chew," said our grandmothers. Translated into jelly-making terms, it means don't make too large a batch of jelly at one time. Seven to 11 glasses is a convenient amount to handle and assures a more uniform jelly. The sterilized jelly glasses are not subjected to long waits during which germs collect in them and the finished jelly or jam can be poured at once. Also, if you make a small batch at a time, jelly-making is no chore. Two or three batches made with each new fruit as it comes into season fills your cupboard before you realize it.

Guatemalan Indian Crafts Inspire New Primitive-Sophisticated Style

These hand-loomed fabrics as I braids brighten a room.

By MARGERY TAYLOR.

Copyright, 1935, by McCall's Magazine for The Freeman.

Now we are to be Guatemalan—and pleasant it will be too, with colorful gaiety and primitive simplicity which we can make so new and sophisticated.

Guatemalan Indian crafts, the new style source for decoration, brings us all kinds of fabrics.

Walls may be covered with honey-colored straw braid. One kind is three or four inches wide, of thin straw strands with a basket weave edge in overlapping bands. It gives a clever horizontal stripe effect; two or three rows make interesting window curtains. Another, of many rows of narrow straw braid sewed together, comes in handy rolls.

What could be better for a summer home covering than native straw with Indian designs, walled bowls and hand-blown glassware.

coils and raised looped borders of stripes in such a lively combination of colors as mustard yellow, molasses purple, blue-green and berry-purple. Other rug designs are borrowed from the large bright plaids of the Guatemalan women wrap broad.

Sacred robes and horse's cinches, blouses and embroidered aprons—the new fabric designs—some have delicate flowers, hawks and birds in bright colored outline on linen colored background. Chevron and lightning designs have been worked out on crinkled cord and sheer cut velvet. From a native wedding tablecloth is copied white triangular hand-made fringe which is applied in stripes on blue cloth.

Woven Guatemalan belts make wonderful braids for use on curtains, chairs, pillows and Venetian blind tapes. And there are plenty of Guatemalan accessories—rugs and saddle cloth blankets, while flower pots with Indian designs, walled bowls and hand-blown glassware.

DRESSY, DELICIOUS CAKE WITHOUT BAKING

It's open season for refrigerator desserts! In our illustration we show you a favorite cake, made in a few minutes—without baking; and brought out of any refrigerator (ice-type or automatic) looking as if it had taken hours to make.

"Umm-m!" you exclaim when you see this cake. "Looks like a party!" And you're certainly right. Served with grape-apricot punch as pictured (or with hot coffee), it's the glorified sort of thing that makes a grand impression—even without any other food. Say, at a club meeting or bridge or for a porch party. Here's the recipe—

Chocolate Refrigerator Roll
14 crisp chocolate wafers (about 3 inches in diameter.)
1 1/2 cups heavy cream.

First whip cream thick but not too stiff. Spread one wafer generously with this, lay wafer on good-sized piece of waxed paper, and top with another wafer spread with whipped cream. Continue till 14 wafers are used (don't spread the last wafer; but remember to save 1-3 of the whipped cream for use later. Now turn the stack of wafers on edge, and wrap the waxed paper around—so as to hold wafers together till cream has set.

After several hours of chilling in refrigerator, the cake is ready to serve. Unwrap the roll and turn it out carefully on a large platter or plate. Spread top and sides with remaining whipped cream, and sprinkle with toasted, shredded kind of refrigerator you own, you'll find this booklet an absolute for this the roll diagonally—so as to get handsome stripings of chocolate cake coupon below.

Note that this recipe calls for no sugar in the whipped cream; but you may add some (powdered sugar) if you like desserts exceedingly sweet. You might also add 8 maraschino cherries (first cut fine) to the whipped cream used for spreading, garnishing the finished roll with sliced maraschino cherries. Or add 1-2 cup finely cut nuts or moist coconut to the whipped cream used for spreading, and sprinkle nuts or coconut thickly over top of finished roll.

N.R.S.C., With Boots Pitching, Turn Back The Lumbermen, 6-1

The North Rondout Social Club turned the tables on Schryvers' Lumbermen at the Athletic Field, Friday evening, and avenged a defeat inflicted on the Social boys earlier in the season. The score was 6-1 and the defeat of the Lumbermen threw the clubs in the City League into a wild scramble.

The Lumbermen, who led the pack from the start, dropped into third place and the Rondouters moved into second place, one-half game behind the Hercules. The last three teams are tied and the first and last teams are only one and one-half game apart.

Inability to hit Joe Boots, Rondouters' big hurler, was one of the main reasons for the Lumbermen's defeat. They could solve his delivery for only four hits and would have been blanked if Jimmy Turk hadn't kicked in with an error.

Bill Thomas opposed Boots at the start and lasted five innings. He was nicked for five hits and five runs before he retired in favor of Jim Volker. Volker finished the game, allowing three hits.

Although Turk's error paved the way for the Lumbermen's lone tally, he had nothing to worry about for he circled the bases three times himself. He showed plenty of speed afoot and started the Rondouters scoring. In the first inning he reached second when Carpenter missed Slicker's toss of his grounder. He advanced to third on an infield out and registered on a wild pitch.

The Rondouters loaded the bases in the second inning with none out, but the best they could get out of the rally was one run. They added another run in the third on an error by Shackett and a double to right field by Boots.

Phil Komosa supplied the big thrill of the game in the sixth inning. With Tiano on the paths he hit one by Shackett in left field and circled the bases.

The Lumbermen also scored in the sixth, getting their lone tally at this time. Turk tossed Thomas' grounder, and away from Thomas reached second. Volker sent him home with a single to left field.

Singles by Turk, Tiano and Boots accounted for the Rondouters' last run, Turk scoring.

Sickler made a spectacular pickup of Tiano's grounder in the first inning and drew a big hand from the rooters. The ball was labeled a hit when it left the bat.

Schryvers are the first ones to be fined for putting a man on the field without a uniform. Robins, in citizen's clothes, played a half inning. Joyce, who arrived late, replaced him.

Lewis' running catch of Carpenter's fly robbed Johnny of a hit in the third inning.

Phil Komosa gets the second case of Burgomaster donated by Fitzgerald Bros. He should give Shackett at least a dozen bottles.

For the benefit of those who do not understand the rule applying to the ball going into the crowd in right field: A ball hit on the inside of the telegraph pole is in play and a batter isn't allowed more than two bases. He advances past second at his own peril.

Batting and Fielding Average of Kingston High Baseball Team

The batting and fielding averages of the members of the Kingston High School baseball team, recently compiled, show that Tommy Maines leads the team in the batting performance with an average of .367. He is the only three hundred hitter on the team. Tony Reinhardt and Elmer Hopper, both outfielders, lead the regular varsity men in fielding with averages of 1.000.

The averages were compiled from the boxscores of the Kingston High games that appeared on the sport pages of The Freeman. The averages show the number of games that each player played in and the necessary data to compute the averages. They are as follows:

Wilbur Dodgers Take Game from Maplecrest

Behind seven to four at the beginning of the eighth inning, in their game with Maplecrest Friday, the Wilbur Dodgers staged a rally, and put across six runs in that inning, every player on the team securing a hit, with the result that the Dodgers took the ball game by a score of 10 to 7.

The game Friday marked the Dodgers' first of the season away from their home diamond.

There was some heavy hitting on both sides. For the Dodgers Tiano, Davis, Lay and Kosowski got two-baggers, the latter being credited with two. For Maplecrest Moseman lined out two doubles and Fluhe got a triple. Mackey, twirling for Maplecrest, struck out 11 men and Fluhe, who succeeded him, struck out 2. Davis, Dodger pitcher, has five strike-outs to his credit. Hits were pretty evenly balanced, the Dodgers getting 15 and Maplecrest 13.

COMFORTERS GIVE KAPLAN'S FIRST DEFEAT

Friday night, at the Fair Grounds, the Comforter softballers proved themselves anything but a comfort to the Kaplan aggregation by handing the upstarts their first setback in six starts, 8-4. Fishman pitched good ball for Kaplans and had the game all his own way till the last inning when the Comforters wiped out a 4-0 lead with a series of hits, produced eight runs before the last out was made. Ken Williams made his first appearance on the mound for the Comforters with Eighty doing the catching.

Monday night at the Fair Grounds the Comforters will play the Main Street A. C.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

By The Associated Press
Philadelphia — Dan O'Mahoney, 218, of Ireland, defeated George Zaharias, 238, of Pueblo, Col., one fall.

Des Moines — Joe Duvick, 212, Omaha, won two out of three falls from Jack Baker, 208, Dallas.

STANDINGS

While it would be impossible to enter all the odd happenings of any major league season in the record books, it seems worthy of note when two of the best pitching performances of the still-young 1935 campaign are recorded on the same day and neither of the pitchers who did work was unable to win his game.

On fields separated by only a few miles, Leon Chagnon, of the Giants, pitched a two-hit game against the Reds yesterday and lost it 2 to 0, and Watson Clark, veteran Brooklyn southpaw, gave the Pirates only three blows and suffered a 1 to 0 setback.

Chagnon, making his first appearance as a starting hurler in nearly two years, apparently was a victim of circumstances in the second inning when the Reds did all their stickwork.

Jim Bottomley, celebrating his return to action after a three-week absence due to lumbago, slashed a vicious liner down to first. Bill Terry stabbed at it with his bare hand and the game was held up while the hand was inspected for possible injuries.

Getting back to work after the delay, Chagnon grooved one for Gilly Campbell and the young catcher belted it into the stands for a homer.

Meanwhile Paul Derringer, winning his eighth game of the year, neatly set the Giants down with four hits. It was the same at Brooklyn, where Bill Swift, Pittsburgh singer, granted the Dodgers only five blows and caught his mound rival napping in the ninth to smack a double and score the only run on Forrester Jensen's two bagger.

Pittsburgh Moves Up

Pittsburgh's triumphs moved the Bucs into second place in the National League as the Cardinals split a hard fought double header with the Braves. Boston took the opener 5 to 4 when Wally Berger smashed a homer with two aboard. After Dizzy Dean had toiled 12 innings in the nightcap the Cards finally won for him 8 to 7 on hits by Jack Rothrock and Jim Collins plus a sacrifice. Curt Davis of the Phillies, making his first start since the season's opener, showed that he had recovered from his sore arm trouble when he bore down in the clinches and beat the Cubs 5 to 4, although touched for eleven hits.

The American League produced a succession of weird slugs, the oddest of which saw the Senators beat the White Sox 16 to 11 in 11 innings after Chicago had overcome an 8 to 0 deficit. Al Simmons hit a homer with the bases full and Washington's relief pitcher, Ed Linke, knocked one with two aboard in the winning rally.

The league-leading Yankees had to go 13 innings to subdue the last-place Browns 4 to 3 after tying the count in the ninth, when Merritt Cain weakened toward the finish of a well pitched game. Boston's Red Sox moved into a virtual tie with Cleveland for fourth place when they bowled over the Tigers 10 to 8 after blowing an early 7-3 lead, while the Indians took a 5-4 setback to Monte Pearson's wildness.

Watch Pennsylvania If Water Is Rough

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 15 (AP).—The word along the river is watch Pennsylvania on regatta day, especially if the water is rough.

Late yesterday, after most of the other shells had come back to their wharves, Coach Rusty Callow ordered his huskies to push their slim craft into the water. Just about that time a strong wind blew up and the river became suddenly rough.

The big fellows bent to their task, however, and breasting the wind, a regulated four mile course in 22:34; time that was considered to be exceptionally good under the conditions.

Lloyd Sarton, the stroke whose illness at first was expected to keep him out of the regatta on Tuesday, appeared in top form as he stroked his shell alone at a beat that ran as high as 26 in the first stages of the workout.

Cornell held its second trial in two days yesterday, covering four miles of smooth water in 21:41. Jim Wray started his varsity at the beginning of the four mile course and picked up the Jayvacs at the end of the first mile. The varsity shell pulled away to a good lead on their fresher rivals however.

The other crews held tight workouts but the California shell, after being slipped into the water, for a late spin, was brought back when the wind whipped while caps out of the river.

It was 2 A. M. when Max Baer posed for this picture to exhibit the hands he says he broke in losing his heavyweight title to Jimmy Braddock at Madison Square Garden Bowl last night. His hands were strapped at 9 P. M. Could Jimmy have stopped that, too? (Associated Press Photo)

Taxpayers' Council
Picks Committee

tiality. Mr. Brooks said this was not the case.

The Freeman and The Leader, Kingston's two newspapers, were commended for impartially reporting
the procedure of the taxpayers' meetings.

It was voted to publish a mimeographed sheet with news about the taxpayers council for distribution
throughout Ulster and Greene counties.

Concerning telegrams urging the passage of the Patman Bill sent to President Franklin D. Roosevelt trying the previous taxpayers' meeting, Secretary Scirelber informed the assemblage that no answers had been received.

On motion of Arthur W. Giles of Saugerties, it was voted to ask A. A.
Fuller, former old age relief investigator, to furnish an affidavit as to why he was replaced by former Supervisor Henry A. Lamoureux of Saug-erties.

The speaker said he had heard that
Mr. Fuller served on the Child Welfare Board for 14 years without pay conducting the office satisfactorily
and efficiently.

Informing the gathering that although he was talking from information furnished by rumor alone he had heard that "they had been trying to remove Mr. Fuller from office for the past three years because he was not a good enough Republican."

President Mutari, reading from an editorial in an Ulster county Republican publication, told the meeting that the removal of Mr. Fuller was a challenge to the taxpayers and one worthy of their investigation. He questioned the efficiency of Mr. Lamoureux as compared to that of Mr.
Fuller, who apparently resigned "under pressure."

The next meeting of the taxpayers
will be held in the Stuyvesant
second Friday in July, the date being the 12th.

Held In $200,000 Kidnaping—Bail $200,000

Into the spotlight of notoriety plopped Harmon Metz Waley and his wife Margaret when they were arrested, according to federal agents, confessed their part in the $200,000 kidnaping of young George Weyerhaeuser. Picked up in Salt Lake City, where it is claimed, Mrs. Waley was attempting to pass one of the ransom notes, the two were whisked off to Tacoma, Wash., scene of the crime, by plane and there charged by federal authorities under the Lindbergh kidnap law and with mail fraud conspiracy. Their bail was set at $100,000 each. It was alleged that in taking the abducted youth from his home in Tacoma to the Spokane hideout, they crossed the Idaho state line, going to Blanchard and Spirit Lake. This the Waleys denied, pleading not guilty to the federal charges. By facing the federal charges first, the Waleys, at least temporarily, escaped facing Washington's new death-for-kidnaping statute. Waley, a paroled convict from the State Penitentiary at Walla Walla, Wash., and his wife spent several months in Camden, N. J., where it was said he demanded and obtained aid from relief agencies amounting to more than $300. The Waleys, in their alleged confessions, were said to have implicated William Mahan, another paroled convict, as companion in crime.

St. Ursula Mothers' Association Meeting

The annual meeting of the Mothers' Association of St. Ursula was held in the Academy Auditorium Tuesday, June 11. Reports were received from the committee chairmen of the recent Garden Party and a very substantial amount will be at the disposal of the association for the purpose of increasing the facilities of the school library. All the officers who served last year were unanimously re-elected: President, Mrs. Clarence S. Gannon; vice president, Mrs. Frederic Holcomb; treasurer, Mrs. Timothy Donovan; secretary, Mrs. Richard C. Dawe.

School will reopen September 8 and the next meeting of the association will be held Tuesday, September 17.

The president's annual report follows:
June 11, 1935
The first annual report of the president of the Mothers' Association of the Convent of St. Ursula must necessarily be brief because the reports of the treasurer and secretary will cover the details of our activities.

In spite of the trying times through which we are passing, we as a group, have carried on the spirit of service to our school so splendidly inaugurated by the first president of our association.

Previous to the re-opening of the school September 10, 1934, we were able to make a satisfactory contract with the Roosa Taxi Company for the transportation of many of the children attending St. Ursula's. I do not hesitate to say that this taxi service has been a splendid inauguration for those of us who patronize it. It has completely taken away the worry about our children's transportation and I urgently advise a continuance of this taxi service.

In January we were honored by a scholarly address by the Rev. Doctor Michael J. Larkin of New Rochelle on Catholic Education. Father Larkin made a splendid impression on his audience. He handled his subject in a masterly way and he left many worth while thoughts about the education of our children which will not readily be forgotten.

Walter Miller acted as chairman of the evening and very happily introduced the speaker. One of our members, Mrs. Bernard Fort, charmed the audience with her singing. I strongly urge that we arrange for more of these lecture evenings during the coming year.

Sadness visited the convent during the year when Sister Marie Angeline passed on to her deserved reward. She was a very patient sufferer for many weeks and we, who knew her, feel sure she has found happiness—"that peace which the world cannot give because it does not possess it." This was the first death which this community has suffered in the nearly 40 years of their residence in this country.

At the March meeting the new By-Laws were adopted by our association and I shall quote verbatim Article 11—Object. "The object of this association is to foster interest among its members in the general activities of the school and to promote the social, cultural and financial development thereof, and a close intercourse between parents and teachers." These words try so much that I think it would be well for us to hear them very frequently.

On June 6 our annual Garden Party was held. Clearing skies brought a large gathering to the grounds and smiles and expressions of gratitude to all who were interested in the success of the affair. While the financial returns may not be as great as in other years, the tradition of an annual garden party at St. Ursula's has not been broken.

In closing I wish to express my gratitude to my fellow officers who have so faithfully performed not only their own duties but have assumed most of mine. Their spirit of co-

"Indian Garden" in Allegany State Park

Salamanca, N. Y., June 15 (AP).—An "Indian garden" planted with 150 herbs, trees and plants used by the New York Indians for food, medicine, cordage and ceremonial rites is under cultivation in the Allegany State Park near here.

The garden shows that the Indians did not lack variety in their diets; there are almost a score of plants which furnished roots or bulbs; there is a wide selection of nuts, another of fruits and half a dozen or so plants whose leaves or stems were cooked much as we prepare greens. The corn, beans, squash and melons cultivated by the Six Nations are not included.

Some of the better known root plants include Jerusalem artichoke, wild onion, Solomon's seal, Indian turnip, wild ginger, arrowweed, milkweed, wild leek and groundnut.

Indian women cooked the leaves and stems of the pokeweed, burdock, milkweed, yellow dock, sorrel, mustard and pigweed. They gathered wild crab-apples, grapes, plums, black cherries and berries, also hickory nuts, chestnuts, walnuts, butternuts, beechnuts and hazelnuts.

Among medicinal plants are calamus, ginseng, boneset, witchhazel, sassafras, spikenard and wild betony. Some of these have a recognized value among the whites.

The crabapple gave a golden yellow paint, the cranberry a purple, the wild indigo a blue, bloodroot a red and the black walnut a brown. They obtained fibers for cordage from the swamp milkweed, the inner bark of the linden, from Indian hemp and from sunflowers.

A ceremonial tobacco was made from the cardinal flower. Besides tobacco the Indians actually smoked other things, often spoken of as "kinnikinnick." Examples in the garden are the lobelia, silky dogwood and the willow, whose bark was used.

Prof. William P. Alexander of the Buffalo Museum of Science, planned the garden, which was planted largely by students of the Allegany School of Natural History, a "school in the forest" held every summer to give nature students field work in botany, zoology, geology, bird study and nature study.

Rockefeller Back To Northern Home

Lakewood, N. J., June 15 (AP).—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was back today at one of his favorite spots, "Golf House", apparently in better health than when he left here last year.

Arriving in his private railroad car yesterday after an unsuccessful trip from his Ormond (Fla.) estate, the 85-year-old philanthropist walked with assistance down the steps and into his automobile. When he left for the month he was so feeble he was carried to the train in a collapsible chair.

Big Corn Harvest Expected.
McAllen, Tex. (AP).—Banks Miller expects to harvest 1,000,000 bushels of corn this year. In one area, he has 2,340 acres planted to the crop.

operation is reflected in our entire membership, as evidenced by the ready and cheerful response from each member when called upon to do something for the Mothers' Association of the Convent of St. Ursula of the Blessed Virgin Mary.
Respectfully submitted,
ISABEL GANNON,
President.

Return From South With Prisoner

Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg and Sergeant John Lockhart of Highland returned shortly after mid-night from West Virginia where they had gone to bring back Prudence Gonzales, alias "Red" Rubio, who is wanted in Ulster county for robbery, first degree. Gonzales it is charged was the leader in a hold-up at a state road construction camp back in 1931 when several Spaniard employees were held up and robbed of a large sum of money. The robbery took place at a boarding camp near Kerhonkson during the construction of the Minnewaska Trail.

Several men who had been engaged in playing cards were suddenly confronted with a gun and demanded to give up their funds. The report was that some $5,000 was taken, in some cases it represented the life savings of some of the men.

Gonzales has been trailed over considerable country since and was finally apprehended at Welch, West Virginia. The local officers motored there and picked up Gonzales. The trip was about 1,500 miles.

Gonzales in answer to the usual questions when booked at the county jail said he was 37 years old and had been born in Spain. He gave his residence as Ware, West Virginia, and stated he had two prior convictions on felony charges. His occupation is a miner.

12 European Nations Owe $812,000,000

Washington, June 15 (AP).—Uncle Sam got out his red ink today to write "past due" opposite $812,000,000 of war debts owed this country by 12 European nations. The occasion was the semi-annual receipt of "still unable to pay" notes from the war-time debts of the United States.

Installments due today amounted to $180,000,000 and $632,000,000 already was in arrears. Officials expected that the only cash in the till when the state department closes its books tonight will be $165,453 from Finland. While all the larger debtor countries have defaulted on payments in the past, the Finns have met their obligation in full and when due.

Hungary linked up this morning with six other nations which previously had announced they would not hand over the cash due at this time. A note from Hungary said that it was depositing an "I.O.U." in Pengos, equivalent to $37,410.66, to the account of the United States in the Hungarian treasury. This promise to pay will draw 2 per cent interest, it was said.

Great Britain, France, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Rumania and Poland announced earlier that they would be unable to pay. The remaining countries to which Secretary Hull recently sent "please remit" notes were Belgium, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Yugoslavia. They all defaulted on the last five or six installments.

Default of today's installment would raise the total amounts past due from the different debtors to: Great Britain, $485,132,541; France, $227,988,982; Belgium, $28,987,815; Czechoslovakia, $7,901,326; Estonia, $2,167,024; Hungary, $239,660; Italy, $45,711,790; Latvia, $776,311; Lithuania, $454,883; Poland, $27,011,948; Rumania, $3,795,000; and Yugoslavia, $1,150,000.
